What is a Near-Death Experience?

A near-death experience (NDE) is a profound experience that occurs when a person is close to death. NDEs can be caused by a variety of events, such as a heart attack, a stroke, or a car accident. During an NDE, people often report seeing a bright light, meeting deceased loved ones, and traveling through a tunnel.

Wichert argues that NDEs provide evidence for the existence of God, heaven, and hell. He also believes that NDEs can help us to overcome our fear of death and to live more meaningful lives.

What Happens When We Die?

According to Wichert, NDEs provide evidence for the existence of an afterlife. He argues that the experiences of near-death survivors are consistent with the teachings of many religions. For example, NDEs often involve meeting deceased loved ones, which suggests that there is a place where we can reunite with those who have died.

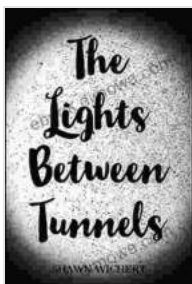

Wichert also believes that NDEs provide evidence for the existence of God. He argues that the bright light that is often seen during NDEs is a manifestation of God's presence. Additionally, many people who have had NDEs report feeling a sense of peace and love, which suggests that God is a loving being.

How Can NDEs Help Us?

Wichert believes that NDEs can help us to overcome our fear of death and to live more meaningful lives. He argues that NDEs provide evidence that death is not the end. Instead, it is a transition to a new and better life. This knowledge can help us to live our lives with more purpose and meaning.

Additionally, Wichert believes that NDEs can help us to develop a more compassionate and loving attitude towards others. He argues that NDEs teach us that we are all connected and that we should treat each other with respect and kindness.

The Lights Between Tunnels is a fascinating and thought-provoking exploration of the afterlife. Wichert's book is a must-read for anyone who is interested in the nature of death and dying.
