

Float the Scenic Rivers of Cass County, Iowa: The Ultimate Guide

Recommended Launch Sites

- Riverton Access: This launch site offers easy access to the Nishnabotna River and is a great starting point for a day trip.
- Macedonia Access: Located further downstream, this launch site provides access to deeper pools and slower currents.
- Lewis Access: This launch site is situated near the confluence of the Nishnabotna and East Nishnabotna Rivers, offering a chance to explore both waterways.

Fishing Tips

- Walleye: Target the deeper pools and areas with current breaks. Use live bait, such as minnows or nightcrawlers, or cast lures that imitate baitfish.
- Sauger: Similar to walleye, sauger prefer deep pools and current breaks. Try using jigs or small crankbaits.
- Smallmouth Bass: Look for smallmouth bass in areas with rocky shorelines or submerged vegetation. Use topwater lures, crankbaits, or spinnerbaits.
- Largemouth Bass: Largemouth bass can be found in shallow areas near weed beds or fallen trees. Use jigs, frogs, or spinnerbaits to entice these fish.

Recommended Launch Sites

- Atlantic Access: This launch site provides convenient access to the East Nishnabotna River and is a popular starting point for float trips.
- Cass Access: Located downstream from Atlantic, this launch site offers a more secluded experience with fewer crowds.
- Anita Access: This launch site is situated near the confluence of the East Nishnabotna and Middle Raccoon Rivers, allowing you to explore both waterways.

Fishing Tips

- Trout: Trout are stocked in the East Nishnabotna River during the spring and fall. Target areas with cold, clear water and use lures that imitate insects or small fish.
- Smallmouth Bass: Smallmouth bass can be found throughout the river in areas with rocky shorelines or submerged vegetation. Use topwater lures, crankbaits, or spinnerbaits to attract these fish.
- Walleye: Walleye prefer deeper pools and current breaks. Use live bait, such as minnows or nightcrawlers, or cast lures that imitate baitfish.
- Sauger: Sauger are similar to walleye in their habitat preferences. Try using jigs or small crankbaits to catch these fish.

Recommended Launch Sites

- Panora Access: This launch site offers easy access to the Middle Raccoon River and is a good starting point for a leisurely float trip.
- Fontanelle Access: Located downstream from Panora, this launch site provides access to deeper pools and larger fish.

- Guthrie Center Access: This launch site is situated near the confluence of the Middle Raccoon and North Raccoon Rivers, allowing you to explore both waterways.

Fishing Tips

- Catfish: Catfish can be found throughout the Middle Raccoon River in areas with deep pools or undercut banks. Use live bait, such as worms or cutbait, or try dough balls or stink bait.
- Carp: Carp are abundant in the Middle Raccoon River and are often targeted by anglers using bread balls or dough balls as bait.
- Crappie: Crappie can be found in areas with submerged vegetation or fallen trees. Use small jigs or minnows to catch these fish.
- Largemouth Bass: Largemouth bass can be found in shallow areas near weed beds or fallen trees. Use jigs, frogs, or spinnerbaits to entice these fish.
- Check river conditions: Before you head out, check the river levels and current forecasts to ensure safe floating conditions.
- Obtain necessary permits: Some launch sites may require a permit for floating. Contact the local authorities to obtain the necessary permits before your trip.
- Bring essential gear: Pack plenty of water, sunscreen, insect repellent, and a first-aid kit. Consider bringing a dry bag to protect your valuables from water damage.
- Respect the environment: Leave no trace and pack out what you pack in. Help preserve the beauty and natural resources of Cass
